

CONFIDENTIAL TEA REPORT

Tea is a globally cherished beverage with deep cultural roots.
Originating in China, tea spread across continents over centuries.
Green tea is lightly processed and rich in antioxidants.
Black tea is fully oxidized, offering a bold and robust flavor.
Oolong tea sits between green and black in oxidation.
White tea is delicate and minimally processed.
Herbal teas are not true teas but popular infusions.
Tea ceremonies highlight cultural traditions and mindfulness.
Modern tea culture includes ready-to-drink innovations.
Sustainability is becoming important in tea production.
Tea is a globally cherished beverage with deep cultural roots.
Originating in China, tea spread across continents over centuries.
Green tea is lightly processed and rich in antioxidants.
Black tea is fully oxidized, offering a bold and robust flavor.
Oolong tea sits between green and black in oxidation.
White tea is delicate and minimally processed.
Herbal teas are not true teas but popular infusions.
Tea ceremonies highlight cultural traditions and mindfulness.
Modern tea culture includes ready-to-drink innovations.
Sustainability is becoming important in tea production.
Tea is a globally cherished beverage with deep cultural roots.
Originating in China, tea spread across continents over centuries.
Green tea is lightly processed and rich in antioxidants.
Black tea is fully oxidized, offering a bold and robust flavor.
Oolong tea sits between green and black in oxidation.
White tea is delicate and minimally processed.
Herbal teas are not true teas but popular infusions.
Tea ceremonies highlight cultural traditions and mindfulness.
Modern tea culture includes ready-to-drink innovations.
Sustainability is becoming important in tea production.
Tea is a globally cherished beverage with deep cultural roots.
Originating in China, tea spread across continents over centuries.
Green tea is lightly processed and rich in antioxidants.
Black tea is fully oxidized, offering a bold and robust flavor.
Oolong tea sits between green and black in oxidation.
White tea is delicate and minimally processed.
Herbal teas are not true teas but popular infusions.
Tea ceremonies highlight cultural traditions and mindfulness.
Modern tea culture includes ready-to-drink innovations.
Sustainability is becoming important in tea production.

CONFIDENTIAL TEA REPORT

Tea is a globally cherished beverage with deep cultural roots.
Originating in China, tea spread across continents over centuries.
Green tea is lightly processed and rich in antioxidants.
Black tea is fully oxidized, offering a bold and robust flavor.
Oolong tea sits between green and black in oxidation.
White tea is delicate and minimally processed.
Herbal teas are not true teas but popular infusions.
Tea ceremonies highlight cultural traditions and mindfulness.
Modern tea culture includes ready-to-drink innovations.
Sustainability is becoming important in tea production.
Tea is a globally cherished beverage with deep cultural roots.
Originating in China, tea spread across continents over centuries.
Green tea is lightly processed and rich in antioxidants.
Black tea is fully oxidized, offering a bold and robust flavor.
Oolong tea sits between green and black in oxidation.
White tea is delicate and minimally processed.
Herbal teas are not true teas but popular infusions.
Tea ceremonies highlight cultural traditions and mindfulness.
Modern tea culture includes ready-to-drink innovations.
Sustainability is becoming important in tea production.
Tea is a globally cherished beverage with deep cultural roots.
Originating in China, tea spread across continents over centuries.
Green tea is lightly processed and rich in antioxidants.
Black tea is fully oxidized, offering a bold and robust flavor.
Oolong tea sits between green and black in oxidation.
White tea is delicate and minimally processed.
Herbal teas are not true teas but popular infusions.
Tea ceremonies highlight cultural traditions and mindfulness.
Modern tea culture includes ready-to-drink innovations.
Sustainability is becoming important in tea production.
Tea is a globally cherished beverage with deep cultural roots.
Originating in China, tea spread across continents over centuries.
Green tea is lightly processed and rich in antioxidants.
Black tea is fully oxidized, offering a bold and robust flavor.
Oolong tea sits between green and black in oxidation.
White tea is delicate and minimally processed.
Herbal teas are not true teas but popular infusions.
Tea ceremonies highlight cultural traditions and mindfulness.
Modern tea culture includes ready-to-drink innovations.
Sustainability is becoming important in tea production.

CONFIDENTIAL TEA REPORT

Tea is a globally cherished beverage with deep cultural roots.
Originating in China, tea spread across continents over centuries.
Green tea is lightly processed and rich in antioxidants.
Black tea is fully oxidized, offering a bold and robust flavor.
Oolong tea sits between green and black in oxidation.
White tea is delicate and minimally processed.
Herbal teas are not true teas but popular infusions.
Tea ceremonies highlight cultural traditions and mindfulness.
Modern tea culture includes ready-to-drink innovations.
Sustainability is becoming important in tea production.
Tea is a globally cherished beverage with deep cultural roots.
Originating in China, tea spread across continents over centuries.
Green tea is lightly processed and rich in antioxidants.
Black tea is fully oxidized, offering a bold and robust flavor.
Oolong tea sits between green and black in oxidation.
White tea is delicate and minimally processed.
Herbal teas are not true teas but popular infusions.
Tea ceremonies highlight cultural traditions and mindfulness.
Modern tea culture includes ready-to-drink innovations.
Sustainability is becoming important in tea production.
Tea is a globally cherished beverage with deep cultural roots.
Originating in China, tea spread across continents over centuries.
Green tea is lightly processed and rich in antioxidants.
Black tea is fully oxidized, offering a bold and robust flavor.
Oolong tea sits between green and black in oxidation.
White tea is delicate and minimally processed.
Herbal teas are not true teas but popular infusions.
Tea ceremonies highlight cultural traditions and mindfulness.
Modern tea culture includes ready-to-drink innovations.
Sustainability is becoming important in tea production.
Tea is a globally cherished beverage with deep cultural roots.
Originating in China, tea spread across continents over centuries.
Green tea is lightly processed and rich in antioxidants.
Black tea is fully oxidized, offering a bold and robust flavor.
Oolong tea sits between green and black in oxidation.
White tea is delicate and minimally processed.
Herbal teas are not true teas but popular infusions.
Tea ceremonies highlight cultural traditions and mindfulness.
Modern tea culture includes ready-to-drink innovations.
Sustainability is becoming important in tea production.

CONFIDENTIAL TEA REPORT

Tea is a globally cherished beverage with deep cultural roots.
Originating in China, tea spread across continents over centuries.
Green tea is lightly processed and rich in antioxidants.
Black tea is fully oxidized, offering a bold and robust flavor.
Oolong tea sits between green and black in oxidation.
White tea is delicate and minimally processed.
Herbal teas are not true teas but popular infusions.
Tea ceremonies highlight cultural traditions and mindfulness.
Modern tea culture includes ready-to-drink innovations.
Sustainability is becoming important in tea production.
Tea is a globally cherished beverage with deep cultural roots.
Originating in China, tea spread across continents over centuries.
Green tea is lightly processed and rich in antioxidants.
Black tea is fully oxidized, offering a bold and robust flavor.
Oolong tea sits between green and black in oxidation.
White tea is delicate and minimally processed.
Herbal teas are not true teas but popular infusions.
Tea ceremonies highlight cultural traditions and mindfulness.
Modern tea culture includes ready-to-drink innovations.
Sustainability is becoming important in tea production.
Tea is a globally cherished beverage with deep cultural roots.
Originating in China, tea spread across continents over centuries.
Green tea is lightly processed and rich in antioxidants.
Black tea is fully oxidized, offering a bold and robust flavor.
Oolong tea sits between green and black in oxidation.
White tea is delicate and minimally processed.
Herbal teas are not true teas but popular infusions.
Tea ceremonies highlight cultural traditions and mindfulness.
Modern tea culture includes ready-to-drink innovations.
Sustainability is becoming important in tea production.
Tea is a globally cherished beverage with deep cultural roots.
Originating in China, tea spread across continents over centuries.
Green tea is lightly processed and rich in antioxidants.
Black tea is fully oxidized, offering a bold and robust flavor.
Oolong tea sits between green and black in oxidation.
White tea is delicate and minimally processed.
Herbal teas are not true teas but popular infusions.
Tea ceremonies highlight cultural traditions and mindfulness.
Modern tea culture includes ready-to-drink innovations.
Sustainability is becoming important in tea production.

CONFIDENTIAL TEA REPORT

Tea is a globally cherished beverage with deep cultural roots.
Originating in China, tea spread across continents over centuries.
Green tea is lightly processed and rich in antioxidants.
Black tea is fully oxidized, offering a bold and robust flavor.
Oolong tea sits between green and black in oxidation.
White tea is delicate and minimally processed.
Herbal teas are not true teas but popular infusions.
Tea ceremonies highlight cultural traditions and mindfulness.
Modern tea culture includes ready-to-drink innovations.
Sustainability is becoming important in tea production.
Tea is a globally cherished beverage with deep cultural roots.
Originating in China, tea spread across continents over centuries.
Green tea is lightly processed and rich in antioxidants.
Black tea is fully oxidized, offering a bold and robust flavor.
Oolong tea sits between green and black in oxidation.
White tea is delicate and minimally processed.
Herbal teas are not true teas but popular infusions.
Tea ceremonies highlight cultural traditions and mindfulness.
Modern tea culture includes ready-to-drink innovations.
Sustainability is becoming important in tea production.
Tea is a globally cherished beverage with deep cultural roots.
Originating in China, tea spread across continents over centuries.
Green tea is lightly processed and rich in antioxidants.
Black tea is fully oxidized, offering a bold and robust flavor.
Oolong tea sits between green and black in oxidation.
White tea is delicate and minimally processed.
Herbal teas are not true teas but popular infusions.
Tea ceremonies highlight cultural traditions and mindfulness.
Modern tea culture includes ready-to-drink innovations.
Sustainability is becoming important in tea production.
Tea is a globally cherished beverage with deep cultural roots.
Originating in China, tea spread across continents over centuries.
Green tea is lightly processed and rich in antioxidants.
Black tea is fully oxidized, offering a bold and robust flavor.
Oolong tea sits between green and black in oxidation.
White tea is delicate and minimally processed.
Herbal teas are not true teas but popular infusions.
Tea ceremonies highlight cultural traditions and mindfulness.
Modern tea culture includes ready-to-drink innovations.
Sustainability is becoming important in tea production.